Information collection and use

Analytics

We use Firebase Analytics to track some analytics data and Firebase Authentication to securely connect to our servers. Firebase Analytics do not track any bank-related information.

Firebase is a service provided by Google. You may opt-out of certain Firebase features through your mobile device settings, such as your device advertising settings or by following the instructions provided by Google in their Privacy Policy: <https://policies.google.com/privacy?hl=en>

We collect anonymous information about the transaction you categorize. We use this data to improve our sorting algorithms. This data will only be accessible to Monyca and will never be handed over or sold to a third party.

When you login to Monyca, we only use your bank account to retrieve your transactions and accounts. This information will only be stored on your device. When you connect, we only store your access token on our servers to retrieve transactions and accounts.

We use a backend service to retrieve your transactions and accounts, but will not store any of that information on our servers. All traffic between the app and our servers is fully encrypted.

Removal

As stated earlier, we don't store any private banking information on our servers, however, your access token will be stored on our servers to communicate with the banking API. You can revoke this access token using your banking app. When you do this, there will be no more information stored on our servers. But your information will stay on-device.
